

The Carolina Chaos (a member of the Southern Collegiate Baseball League) is currently soliciting sponsorship for our 2007 season. The Southern Collegiate Baseball League is incorporated as non-profit in the state of South Carolina and is one of only nine summer leagues in the nation to be endorsed by the NCAA and Major League Baseball. The SCBL is a wooden bat league currently made up of 8 teams across North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee. The Carolina Chaos is based in Central, SC. The eligibility of our players includes college players from NCAA Division I, II, III, NAIA, and Junior Colleges from across the nation. Throughout the season, players will participate in over forty games from late May into early August. Many games require travel. We also provide uniforms and equipment for the players during the season. By becoming a team sponsor, you will be supporting America's favorite pastime, the sport of baseball! You will also ensure that the opportunities are there for the college players of today to become the major league stars of tomorrow.

All of our sponsorship levels allow for your company logo or name to be loaded onto our team website for advertisement and for you company to be mentioned as a sponsor on our game broadcasts. Last year, our website received over 330,000 hits, the vast majority coming during our online Internet game broadcasts!

During 2007 we will provide several different levels of sponsorship:

Season Sponsor ($1000.00): As a Season Sponsor, you will be recognized as a season sponsor during all of our home games (weekday games and weekend series games). As season sponsor, you will receive the following:
